

ADVANCED TESOL, CERTIFICATE

Program Description

The Advanced TESOL (Teachers of English to Speakers of Other Languages) Certificate provides a pathway for students to acquire and further develop skills needed for teaching English internationally or teaching English to adult second language learners in the U.S. The certificate consists of 16 semester hours of five core courses plus one credit of guided independent tutoring work.

General Requirements

Students must have at least an overall GPA of 2.75 in the six courses. All courses must be passed with a C or better. Students must have completed Core Curriculum Language, Philosophy, and Culture requirements (ENGL 2316, ENGL 2332, ENGL 2333, PHIL 1301, PHIL 2306, or SPAN 3307, SPAN 3308, SPAN 3309, or SPAN 3310) with a C or better. Students must pursue the certificate in conjunction with their bachelor's degree; the certificate will be awarded upon completion of their degree. Students already holding a Bachelor's degree may also pursue a TESOL certificate. This certificate will appear on transcripts. Non-degree seeking students pursuing this certificate will be eligible for financial aid.

Courses

ENGL 0001 Grammar I

0 Semester Credit Hours (3 Lecture Hours)

Grammatical structures that enable students to better comprehend and use academic English are the focus of the course. Students will learn to appreciate the relevance of acquiring and applying grammatical knowledge to express themselves confidently and appropriately in different academic situations, as well as social situations relevant to the American college context.

ENGL 0002 Listening and Speaking I

0 Semester Credit Hours (3 Lecture Hours)

This course provides short and focused activities to help students improve their English listening and speaking skills. It includes practice in both mastering the larger message and key words, phrases and specific sounds to assist students in developing better speaking and comprehension skills. Students will practice giving academic presentations as well as practice speaking in small groups and individually.

ENGL 0003 Reading I

0 Semester Credit Hours (3 Lecture Hours)

In this course, students will develop the reading skills essential for academic learning and inquiry in the context of authentic academic reading tasks. Students will work to build fluency, comprehension, and vocabulary skills through extensive and intensive reading tasks of increasing complexity. Contemporary academic and literary texts will be used to develop students' critical reading and vocabulary, writing, listening, and speaking skills.

ENGL 0004 Writing I0 Semester Credit Hours (3 Lecture Hours)

In this course, students will learn and apply the writing skills essential for academic success including sentence, paragraph, and basic essay writing. This course is aimed at students planning to study, or are already studying, at university level in English.

ENGL 0005 Recitation I0 Semester Credit Hours (3 Lecture Hours)

This course provides students with a structured, scheduled academic environment providing the opportunity to complete assignments and work closely with their language instructor. Instructors utilize materials from student courses to facilitate activities and discussions that will increase comprehension of academic material and further students' abilities to work independently in academic settings. Each week, the course will focus on the language skills and vocabulary needed for the students' courses. Additionally, there will be a focus on study skills and time management needed for success in academic settings. Students will leave the course better equipped for university level academic course work and a thorough understanding of time management and appropriate study habits for the university.

ENGL 0011 Grammar II0 Semester Credit Hours (3 Lecture Hours)

This course will focus on high-intermediate grammatical structures that enable students to better comprehend and use academic English. Students will learn to appreciate the relevance of acquiring and applying grammatical knowledge to express themselves confidently and appropriately in different academic situations, as well as social situation relevant to the American college context.

ENGL 0012 Listening and Speaking II0 Semester Credit Hours (3 Lecture Hours)

In this course, students will learn and apply the listening, note-taking, and presentation skills essential for academic learning, inquiry, and communication in the context of authentic academic listening and speaking tasks. Students will work to build fluency, comprehension, and vocabulary skills through extensive and intensive listening tasks of increasing complexity. Contemporary academic lectures and seminars will be used to develop students' critical thinking skills.

ENGL 0013 Reading II0 Semester Credit Hours (3 Lecture Hours)

In this course, students will study texts across several different academic disciplines in order to deepen their understanding of the rhetorical styles and conventions used and applied within the English language. Students will practice identifying audience, purpose, theme, main ideas, and details within several different genres of writing. Students will also develop a variety of strategies to improve their reading comprehension and efficiency, including annotation, vocabulary-building, and discussions regarding written materials.

ENGL 0014 Writing II0 Semester Credit Hours

In this course, students will develop a foundation in the writing skills critical to academic success. Students will apply knowledge of audience, purpose, voice, arrangement, and style in varied writing tasks by writing across several different genres. Genres practiced in this course may include, but are not limited to: emails, newsletters, personal narratives, fiction, academic essays, and magazine/news articles. Students will learn grammar and vocabulary conventions as they apply to different genres and apply these skills in writing tasks of increasing complexity throughout the semester.

ENGL 0022 Listening and Speaking III0 Semester Credit Hours (3 Lecture Hours)

In this course students will learn and apply listening, note-taking, and presentation skills essential for academic learning, inquiry, and discourse in the context of authentic academic listening and speaking tasks. Students will work to build fluency, comprehension, and vocabulary skills through extensive and intensive listening tasks of increasing complexity. Contemporary academic lectures and seminar will be used to develop students' critical thinking skills.

ENGL 0023 Reading and Writing III0 Semester Credit Hours (3 Lecture Hours)

In this course students will improve upon and apply the reading skills essential for academic learning, inquiry, and discourse in the context of authentic academic reading tasks. Students will build vocabulary through extensive and intensive reading tasks of increasing complexity. Contemporary academic tests about writing will be used to develop students' critical reading, academic vocabulary, and complex writing skills. There will be a number of in-class written tasks and prompts that will stimulate free writing practice and introduce students to various styles of writing. Students will also use these written tasks to develop editing skills through the writing process. The final project will be a collection of these written tasks in the form of a portfolio.

ENGL 0036 US Culture0 Semester Credit Hours (3 Lecture Hours)

This course will offer English Language Learners a means for analyzing and evaluating the complex social and moral issues that are specific to the social and moral landscape of the United States. As students examine their own cultures and compare them with others, culture shock and cultural conflict may be lessened and appreciation for cultural differences may be strengthened. Students will engage in interactive tasks, including researching and case analysis of topics and social, academic and professional issues, especially those suggested by the extensive reading component of this course. Through the process of reading, discussion, analysis and writing students in this class will enrich their understanding of today's global society while at the same time they are sharpening their academic English skills.

ENGL 0037 Critical Thinking0 Semester Credit Hours (3 Lecture Hours)

The purpose of this course is to develop the critical thinking skills needed to interpret and assess arguments and information. This course will highlight the language skills essential for critically analyzing and discussing the quality of the information and opinions presented in authentic texts and listening selections. The course will concentrate on detecting errors of reasoning in short and long passages, evaluating evidence in written and verbal arguments, detecting logical inconsistencies, removing vagueness and ambiguity through word choice and phrasing, and identifying the point or purpose of someone's remarks. Through examining these topics, students will be able to thoughtfully respond to others' opinions in a clear, logical, and informed way. Students will leave the course better prepared to collect, synthesize, and evaluate information and feel more confident in presenting their perspectives in an academic setting.

ENGL 0099 Integrated Reading and Writing Non-Course Based Development0 Semester Credit Hours

ENGL 0099 is designed to develop student's critical reading and academic writing skills on an individualized basis through tutoring. The course fulfills TSI requirements for reading and writing. TSI compliance staff will approve each student for this course. Approval is based on test score and/or by academic standing.

ENGL 0101 Reading and Writing Studio1 Semester Credit Hour (1 Lecture Hour)

A support-based course with an additional contact hour focused on writing and reading processes, including strategies for invention, revision, and editing, and techniques of active reading, such as analysis, inference, summary, and evaluating texts. Students will enter ENGL 0101 through Texas Success Initiative (TSI) and will become college-ready once the course is successfully completed. This is a co-requisite course taught in conjunction with ENGL 1301.

Co-requisite: ENGL 1301.

ENGL 0399 Integrated Reading and Writing3 Semester Credit Hours (3 Lecture Hours)

A portfolio-based course with required tutoring (lab) time focused on the writing and reading processes, including strategies for invention, revision, and editing, and techniques of active reading, such as analysis, inference, summary, and evaluating texts. Students will enter ENGL 0399 through Texas Success Initiative (TSI) mandated remediation. (Not counted toward graduation)

ENGL 1301 Writing and Rhetoric I3 Semester Credit Hours (3 Lecture Hours)

English 1301 introduces students to writing studies, rhetoric, academic research, and information literacy. Students will critically read and reflect on threshold concepts in writing studies. They will practice recursive writing and research processes for various situations. Sections will be offered both online and in person each semester.

TCCNS: ENGL 1301

ENGL 1302 Writing and Rhetoric II3 Semester Credit Hours (3 Lecture Hours)

English 1302 builds on the foundation in writing studies, rhetoric, academic research, and information literacy introduced in ENGL 1301. Students will read, apply, and reflect on the current research and scholarship in writing studies and rhetoric. Students will practice transferring, deepening, and extending their ability to use writing into discipline-specific, workplace, and civic contexts. Sections will be offered both online and in person each semester.

Prerequisite: ENGL 1301.

TCCNS: ENGL 1302

ENGL 2303 Introduction to Writing Studies3 Semester Credit Hours (3 Lecture Hours)

This course will review current scholarship on writing studies, including threshold concepts, activity theory, and genre studies. It will consider various perspectives on the uses of writing to provide students with an intellectual and practical understanding of writing. This course provides a starting point for the more specific studies of writing that occur in other writing studies courses.

ENGL 2310 Black Writers3 Semester Credit Hours (3 Lecture Hours)

This introductory course will survey the history and development of African American literature and cultural production from the late 17th century into the 21st. Our survey offers students an overview of some of the major texts, genres, methods, and debates that shape contemporary understandings of the United States with a focus on African American writers, artists, and audiences. Although the course is centered on Black writing and aesthetics, we will simultaneously explore histories of embodiment through genders and sexualities. As many scholars of racialization and US culture have noted, the histories of racialization and the histories of genders/sexualities are inextricable in US ideology and discourses. Across the centuries and styles of our survey, we explore and celebrate a broad range of Black cultures and communities, with an emphasis on Black creativity, beauty, experimentation, and citizenship.

ENGL 2315 Women Writers3 Semester Credit Hours (3 Lecture Hours)

As Virginia Woolf reflects, "The title women and fiction might mean, and you may have meant it to mean, women and what they are like; or it might mean women and the fiction they write; or it might mean women and the fiction that is written about them; or it might mean that somehow all three are inextricably mixed together" (A Room of One's Own 1). We might also approach with the same skepticism "Women Writers"—a rather impossible course to set. This introductory course surveys multiple genres of literatures (poetry, prose fiction, drama, and film) and aims to introduce students to a variety of literary traditions that women writers have developed, shaped, and reshaped.

ENGL 2316 Literature and Culture3 Semester Credit Hours (3 Lecture Hours)

Introduction to literatures that raise aesthetic, cultural, social, and/or political issues that affect and reflect the human condition across regions, cultures, and nations. Sample topics: Crossing Borders, The City in Literature, Islands and Islanders, Science and Fiction.

TCCNS: ENGL 2331

ENGL 2332 Literature of the Western World: From the Classics to the Renaissance3 Semester Credit Hours (3 Lecture Hours)

Study of important literary texts from the Ancient World to the Renaissance.

TCCNS: ENGL 2332

ENGL 2333 Literature of the Western World: From the Enlightenment to the Present3 Semester Credit Hours (3 Lecture Hours)

Study of important literary texts from the Enlightenment to the present.

TCCNS: ENGL 2333

ENGL 2360 Language and Gender3 Semester Credit Hours (3 Lecture Hours)

In this class, we explore how language reflects, and is reflected upon, one facet of our identities: gender. We will explore the complex relationships between gender and aspects of language such as conversation, narrative, pronunciation, grammar, and pragmatic norms. We will also discuss the intersection of gender and other social factors, such as race or culture, as manifested in the language use. Students will also have an opportunity to discuss how gender is represented in the media and online, as well as how gender is situated in institutional contexts, such as home, school, work, and law. There is no prior knowledge of linguistics or social theory required for this class. Course activities include lectures, class discussions, in-class article presentation, language observations, hands-on data analysis, and a final project.

ENGL 2370 Introduction to Literary Studies3 Semester Credit Hours

An introduction to literary analysis and scholarship for the intermediate writer. Emphasis placed on genres of literature, literary research, and expository and analytical composition. Familiarizes students with the various disciplines and related conversations within English Studies. Should be taken by sophomore-level English majors in the Literary Studies emphasis, and by Literary Studies and Creative Writing minors.

Prerequisite: ENGL 1302.

ENGL 2371 Exploring Social Media3 Semester Credit Hours (3 Lecture Hours)

In this course we will examine and discuss current issues related to social media within a rhetorical framework. We will use different social media platforms to share and discuss in order to provide hands-on experience in these environments. Social media will be explored at the micro level as students will review their online social media presence to better understand how readers view them online. From the macro level we will identify current topics that affect the design and use of social media platforms and applications.

ENGL 2372 Personal Writing3 Semester Credit Hours (3 Lecture Hours)

Daily writing relieves stress, promotes mental health and decision-making (both personally and at work), and generates income. This course will help students explore various kinds of personal writing and identify those which are most helpful for them.

ENGL 3167 English as a Second/Foreign Language Tutoring1 Semester Credit Hour

Students pursuing the Advanced TESOL Certificate will supplement ENGL 3367 (TESOL Seminar: Methods) with practical experience tutoring English learners. Students will write reflectively about those experiences. As needed, students will undergo site-specific training.

Co-requisite: ENGL 3367.

ENGL 3301 Technical and Professional Writing3 Semester Credit Hours (3 Lecture Hours)

A course designed to help students gain practical experience in finding and interpreting information and writing reports and documents for specialized audiences in the technical and professional world. ENGL 3301 will be held in a computer-assisted classroom.

ENGL 3302 Techniques of Creative Writing3 Semester Credit Hours (3 Lecture Hours)

Introduces students to the theoretical knowledge and practical experience used in creative writing. Focuses on poetry, creative nonfiction, and short fiction. For all majors.

ENGL 3310 Technical and Professional Writing for Computer Science3 Semester Credit Hours (3 Lecture Hours)

Designed specifically for computer science majors, this course focuses on developing students ability to (1) use writing to communicate effectively with a range of audiences about technology; (2) identify, analyze, and appropriately integrate relevant information in their writing; (3) make informed judgments about their uses of writing based on ACM's and IEEE's code of ethics; and (4) develop their ability to function effectively individually and as members of a team to establish goals, plan tasks, meet deadlines, manage risk, and produce deliverables.

ENGL 3321 Film and Literature3 Semester Credit Hours (3 Lecture Hours)

3 sem. hrs. Studies the connections between the formal elements of literature and of film, with emphasis on theme, narrative style, and genre. By viewing films based on literary sources, students will analyze how literature is adapted into film as well as identify strategies to view and read critically. For all majors.

ENGL 3323 Young Adult Fiction3 Semester Credit Hours (3 Lecture Hours)

Literary study of young adult literature through analysis, discussion, and interpretation. The course emphasizes literary issues connected with society, culture, history, and genre.

ENGL 3325 Literary Connections3 Semester Credit Hours (3 Lecture Hours)

In recent decades, it has become common to study literature in light of other disciplinary perspectives and to study other disciplines as they are depicted in literature. From these interdisciplinary approaches has emerged a distinct mode of analysis that examines texts within their broader social and cultural milieu. In this course students will earn to use cross-disciplinary methods to interpret literature and culture. Topics will vary, but may include Environmental Crisis, Religion, Medicine, and American Literature, Disability Narratives in the Eighteenth Century, Trauma and the City in Twentieth-Century Literature.

ENGL 3335 World Literatures3 Semester Credit Hours (3 Lecture Hours)

This course serves as an introduction to the field of World Literature, with an especial focus on non-“Western” writers. Our readings span cultures and historical periods, allowing us to reflect on the recurring themes, styles, and ethical problematics of several literary traditions around the globe. Through close reading and critical analysis, students will delve into themes such as colonial hegemony, resistance, and the impacts of globalization on literary narratives. We will also consider the complexities and implications of translation, analyzing how linguistic and cultural barriers can both hinder and enrich the process of transnational literary transmission. By the semester's end, students will have developed a nuanced understanding of the diversity and interconnectedness of global literatures, and will be better equipped to think critically about literary canon formation.

ENGL 3339 Introduction to Linguistics3 Semester Credit Hours (3 Lecture Hours)

Introductory survey course covering phonetics, morphology, syntax, semantics, sociolinguistics, neurolinguistics, and language acquisition.
